

Look No Further for Top Quality Home Elevators

The widespread adoption of home elevators in beach side communities is a testament to their value and practical utility for homeowners. Aging-in-place or multi-generational living (and/or vacationing) is now easier than ever with 'vertical hallways' that move people and their belongings up 3, 4 or sometimes 5 stories!

Founded in 1988 with a focus on accessible products for customers in need, it was 2004 when Cambridge Elevating recognized this need for home elevators would expand to the general public's want for greater convenience. Since then, Cambridge focused on manufacturing the highest quality elevators for North America's new home construction industry at the expense of the accessible product lines.

Cambridge's elevator models are branded by a combination of their drive system and convenience of the elevator's door system. Offered are three premium hydraulic-drive models and one low-cost electric-drive model designed for builders and developers.

Hydraulic

Elmira: Manual (or automatic) accordion cab gate with swing landing door

Heritage: Automatic sliding cab door panels with swing landing door

Cambrian: Automatic sliding door panels on both cab and landings

All hydraulic models are equipped with the same rail system, car frame, and power unit as our low-rise commercial elevator. Their design is highly versatile and can be configured to fit perfectly into almost any home design. Every feature of the elevator's takeoff and landing is fully adjustable to give one their perfect ride.

Electric

E50: Automatic bi-fold cab gate with swing landing door

For homebuilders and developers, the E50's low price, compact footprint and minimal construction requirements make it the model of choice against other low-cost alternatives. Homeowners will love its automatic cab gate as standard and low energy consumption.

All Cambridge models ride on cushioned roller wheels for a plush, comfortable ride and are equipped with safety light curtains as standard – not every elevator supplier can say that.

What to consider when buying a home elevator?

Buyers should ensure they buy from an elevator contractor that,

- Has adequate insurance
- Employs licensed mechanics
- Mechanics are factory trained to install/service code compliant devices
- Pull elevator permits

All Cambridge models meet the design requirements of ASME A17.1 Section 5.3, the National codes for elevator safety for Private Residence Elevators.

Why Builders & Architects love Cambridge?

Great Rental Home Features

Auto-homing sends the elevator to a specific floor. Auto-cycle moves the cab every 48 hrs. to keep the system moving & lubricated. Remote monitoring informs the local service provider if the elevator needs corrective or preventative service. Automatic cab doors prevent nuisance service calls.

Design Tools

Design is the key to your business; Cambridge supplies all the necessary tools to make specifying an elevator extremely easy.

Match Any Style of Décor

Over 9 million design combinations are available to customize the elevator so it suits the needs of both your client and project.

Made to Order

During construction anything can change. Don't worry, elevator drawings can be updated to the latest as-built size and travel distance before production.

Striving to be the most responsive to our customers' needs, to support their success is the universal theme throughout the offices, hallways, and production departments at Cambridge. No supplier in this industry can match the overall value offered via product quality, pricing & customer experience.
